A prominent fake Catholic priest has been accused of sexually assaulting a security guard at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel in New York. Those familiar with conservative Catholic clerics critical of Pope Francis will know whom I am speaking of.

> Father Rutler, one of the most influential parish priests in the United States, is a well-known figure in the world of Catholic conservatism, and has been outspoken in his criticism of liberalism and the pontificate of Pope Francis. He is the author of dozens of books, and has hosted a show on Eternal Word Television Network, a Catholic channel available in 140 countries, since 1988. He also gained attention after ministering to firefighters at ground zero on the morning of the Sept. 11 attacks.

After Gonzalez, the woman who accused him, went to the police and formal complaint filed, EWTN canceled his show. Apparently, she was on duty and heard sexual noises during her break. She saw Rutler watching gay porn with his hand in his pants. She called her mom and recorded the incident.

> Ms. Gonzalez said that when she got up and tried to leave the room, the priest blocked her exit, fondled her breasts and slammed her against an office wall before she fought him off and fled.

Rutler has reportedly stepped down voluntarily.

> Father George William Rutler, 75, is prominent Manhattan-based priest and contributor for Catholic media conglomerate Eternal Word Television Network. Ashley Gonzalez, 22, alleged he assaulted her at St. Michael the Archangel Church on West 34th Street in the early morning hours of November 4. Gonzalez told News 12 The Bronx that she was working her second shift as an overnight security guard at the church when the alleged assault took place. She provided cell phone video footage showing a bald man alleged to be Rutler watching gay pornographic video on his office computer in church rectory. Gonzalez alleged that soon afterward, Rutler slammed the door shut, denying her a chance to leave, and jumped on top of her. He has denied the allegations. Archdiocese of New York has told Catholic news media outlets that Rutler has stepped aside from pastoral duties, though church website still features him. Last month, Rutler denied the allegations in a letter to parishioners, claiming that they are 'inconsistent with how I have conducted myself in 50 years'.

Let me get this straight, he was watching gay porn, pardon the pun and then sexually assaulted a security guard? Somehow this makes no sense, but I really don't put anything past novus ordo priests these days. I hope he's never heard of again, even if he's innocent. I say if because woman make shit up all the time. If he's guilty, laicize him and throw him in jail forever.
